05:00 PM - 08:00 PM MST

Idaho State History Museum, (208) 780-5193

Thursday, February 6th, from 5-8 PM, featuring Dr. Sydney Freeman, professor of Adult Organizational Learning and Leadership and the Director of the Black History Research Lab at the University of Idaho.

During this event, Dr. Freeman will present on the concept of "glocal"—the interconnectedness of local and global histories—with a focus on the rich Black history of Idaho and its impact on national and global narratives. The program will include a moderated discussion with Former Senator Cherie Buckner-Webb, followed by an interactive Q&A.
